

The Centre for Catholic Studies' Study Series 2020-21

Heeding the Spirit

New Horizons in Receptive Ecumenism

Thursday 17 June 2021, 12noon-4pm BST, online

Looking towards the Fifth International Conference on Receptive Ecumenism, to be held in Sigtuna, Sweden in 2022, the Centre for Catholic Studies at Durham University has partnered with the Christian Council of Sweden, University College Stockholm, and the Sigtuna Foundation to deliver an online "pre-conference". This is intended to be both a preparation for the 2022 conference, and as a standalone introductory event for anyone interested in the idea of transforming churches through learning from each other.

This one-day digital event will include a short introduction to Receptive Ecumenism, a series of short, highly accessible talks by leading voices in the field, and time for discussion and sharing. There will also be chance to hear about the Sigtuna conference in more detail, and some exciting forthcoming publications for CCS projects in this field.

Speakers

Mathew Chandrankunnel (India)

Sara Gehlin (Sweden)

Cyril Hovorun (USA)

Paul D. Murray (UK)

Antonia Pizzey (Australia)

Cecil M. Robeck (USA)

Gregory A. Ryan (UK)

Gabrielle Thomas (USA)

Registration

All are welcome! Registration is £15 (GBP) (voluntary donation). Please register via <https://centreforcatholicstudies.eventbrite.com>

Other events in the CCS's study series:

Hidden Histories: on the archives of religious congregations (March 2021)

Faith and Thought: Exploring 'the Art of Attention' (May 2021)

For more information, please go to centreforcatholicstudies.co.uk

W centreforcatholicstudies.co.uk ✉ ccs.admin@durham.ac.uk Tw @CCSDham ☎ +44 (0) 191 334 1656